

Travis Terry Design

41 Rainbow Lane, Woody Creek CO. 81656
Mason Residence Concept Package

Conceptual Plans

Upper:

Main:

Lower:

Interior Development, Upper Level Great room, Dining area

This space is still in Development architecturally. So I just tried to illustrate with a perspective a general sense of the space and in 2 dimensions a very rough initial furniture and flow layout on the floor plane. The overall texture and mood of this room will depend heavily on the architectural finishes and materials we specify moving forward. This space's feel and identity will closely mirror the materials finishes and mood of the kitchen, media lounge, and open stair tower creating the 3rd floors sense of entry and importance.

Great room as seen from the kitchen island looking out at the great room, terrace space, and ultimately the views beyond up valley. Again this entire space is still in development stages with architecture, and structural engineering and will be developed further in detail with you and the architecture teams.

Key Plan: Great Room, Dining, Stair Hall, 3rd level

Interior Development, Upper Level
 Kitchen, Bar

Kitchen and bar looking from the great room as if you were standing just behind the great room sofa looking through the bar, over the kitchen island and through to the breakfast nook area. To the left is the range, to the right is a large wall of millwork containing a full height 30" Refrigerator and a full height 30" freezer with a counter space, storage and small TV above. To the left and right of this millwork wall are openings into the Media lounge area which is intimate and comfortable and creates a wonderful warm space for family lounging.

Key Plan, Kitchen Bar, 3rd Level

Interior Development, Upper Level Media Lounge

This is the smaller room just to the right of the kitchen for intimate family gatherings and more comfortable family oriented area for media. The square "bay window" detail in the breakfast area is repeated in this space to create an inviting chic napping nook on the rear wall. This repeat in architectural elements also gives the rear wall balance. In this image you are standing in the entrance to Joe's Zoom Room, and primary bedroom and laundry area entrance looking back through the Media Lounge to the kitchen beyond. Between this area and the stair hall is a 52" opening and the powder room. Its adjacency to the great room, Bar and kitchen make this a wonderful more intimate space for the Television and or reading.

Note:

This space is to offset the lack of a television in the great room, and gives a sense of privacy and intimacy to the 3rd level that the more open and expansive great room and dining area may be less comfortable for smaller groups.

Key Plan: Media Lounge, 3rd Level

Interior Development, Upper Level
 "Joe's Zoom Room" or Primary Suite Study

This is a view standing in the corridor between the Primary Bedroom, and the Media Lounge. Here there are pocket doors separating all these spaces. This is an initial study sketch to illustrate how a fully Private Primary study for private calls, meetings, or zoom calls can be laid out and programmed. This space would be about 7' wide and about 13 feet deep. It consists of storage towers, drawers, and 2 desk areas. And could be easily developed or outfitted with sound mitigation and privacy. There is a very private pocket door towards the rear leading to the Primary W.C. and Bath areas, as well as a pocket door separating from the primary bedroom and laundry entrances to the media lounge.

Note:

The millwork configuration, Lighting and layout here are just to illustrate and communicate this space's possible programming. I would love to develop this in more detail with Joe and Jennifer to completely personalize it to all of Joe's potential needs. We can develop and review this together to make it perfect for him.

Key Plan: "Joe's Zoom Room" or Primary Suite Study, 3RD Level

Interior Development, Upper Level Primary Bedroom

This space will be further developed with Jennifer and Joe. All lighting, furniture, and finishes are just to illustrate texture and communicate the spacial flow and general feel of this incredible space with an entire wall of glass looking up valley. Again the homes running themes and textures will flow seamlessly into this space making it feel connected, Yet private and distinct. The barrier between public and private space will be highlighted here with a large focal pivot door that simultaneously allows the room to be open to the home and closed with enough weight to feel completely isolated visually and acoustically from the rest of the 3rd Level entertaining spaces.

Primary Bedroom as seen from the pivot door separating the 3rd level stair entry landing.

Note:

The material above the headboard upholstery is a slat wood that is also repeated in the entry, kitchen and media lounges. This is just one of our "repeated textural elements that unite all 3 levels and all the spaces of this extraordinary home.

Key Plan: Primary Bedroom Suite, 3RD Level

Interior Development, Upper Level Primary Bathroom

This Stunning space incorporates clearstory windows, antique mirrors and steel walls that compliment the horizontally divided shower glass. Again this space was washed with watercolor to communicate light, texture and scale only, as we will develop this space and its finishes and character together to create the perfect, serene spa-like space to accompany the open organic sexy spirit of this primary suite.

This is a View of the Primary Bath, looking from the rear of this space, where the pocket door into "Joe's Zoom Room" and the door to the W.C. looking back to the vanities and the dressing table to the right, which leads through the dressing corridor into the Primary Bedroom space.

Key Plan: Primary Bath, 3RD Level